We're built to lead claims

Our expertise spans different industries, geographies, legal frameworks, and jurisdictions, and we've led claims with values from $1,000 to $200m.

- As a lead insurer, our team has extensive experience in handling the most complex, contentious and often high-profile claims.
- We prioritise speed of response, even after hours and on weekends, and we ensure our team have the authority to act quickly.
- We take pride in our pragmatism. One size doesn't fit all, and we're prepared to be creative to address issues that demand it.
- We have cultivated strong relationships with leading experts who understand the different geographies, legal jurisdictions, industries and cultures.
- We work closely with Underwriters, seeking to understand the relationships, not just the words on the page.
- Our team excels in coordinating market-wide responses; to encourage speaking as one voice to the broker and the client.

Our Cyber Claims team

The team brings depth and breadth of expertise across complex cyber risks, supported by a claims response that empowers decision making and sets internal Service Level Agreements above the Lloyd's standard.

We're at the forefront of complex, emerging cyber claims. Brit was one of the first insurers to recognise exposure and handle third party privacy claims arising from social media, copyright infringement and to handle significant data tracking technology and biometric claims.

The Cyber claims team is led by one of the most experienced Cyber Claims Managers in the London Market
